Market Insight

"Finance roles across South Wales have continued to adapt in line with significant technological advancements and changing employer priorities over the last year. FinTech remains a dominant force in the UK finance sector, and while London remains the central hub, regional firms are moving at pace to remain competitive. With this comes a surge in demand for candidates with digital proficiency and regulatory knowledge, commanding higher salaries and enhanced benefits for this calibre of talent.

Following a period of inflationary pressures and economic fluctuations, finance teams are playing a critical role in risk management, cash flow forecasting and cost control. CFOs and other senior finance leaders in South Wales are up against rising operational costs, making strategic financial planning a top priority. This has led to increased demand for management accountants, commercial finance analysts and financial controllers, and salaries for these roles have also seen an increase due to their importance in stabilising business performance.

Hybrid working remains the standard, with three days from home being the average. Other persuasive benefits I'm seeing have included study support for professional development and increased pension contributions."
